A Rural Action Community Toolbox Book
RURAL ACTION, INC. • TRIMBLE, OHIO

This project was made possible by a grant from:

Ohio Arts Council

Rural Action's Arts & Cultural Heritage Program has just released this illustrated handbook on its community mural process. During its development over the past six years, a number of rural communities in Appalachian Ohio have been touched by the ability of the arts to inspire pride of place. The book contains step-by-step guidelines along with essays on asset building, partnerships, artistic process, visioning, volunteerism, tourism, youth murals and more. There are chapters on community involvement, publicity, special events, technical information, volunteers, safety and liability, costs, funding, and marketing as well as a resource section including a list of helpful web sites and publications. "In the long run," according to the book's introduction, "the impact of the mural happens both during the process and after the completion of the project and is felt by participants, visitors, and in the regional economy."

ISBN 0-9709856-0-6 Comb bound, 48 pages.
